Engendering the Protester:
Body Politics and Sexual Representation of the Iranian Political Protest

Dr. Sholeh Sharokhi
Butler University

Friday, January 27th
4pm
West End Board Room, Patterson Office Tower 18th Floor

In her work, Dr. Sharokhi, Assistant Professor of Anthropology at Butler University, explores the politics of gender and sexuality, visual and youth culture, and studies of public and urban space.

Sponsored by the Department of Anthropology, Department of Sociology, Department of Gender and Women’s Studies, International Studies Program, and the Arts & Sciences College Enrichment Fund